Houston Parks Board

ANNUAL REPORT 2019

LET'S GET OUTER

A Rich History and an Ambitious Future

Fostering collaboration has been the fabric of Houston Parks Board's work for 43 years. Together with our primary partners, the City of Houston through its Houston Parks and Recreation Department, and Harris County through the Harris County Flood Control District, we work hand in hand with our fellow park leaders, elected leaders, philanthropists, and neighbors throughout the city to build, strengthen, and uplift our green infrastructure.

This year Houston Parks Board welcomed Mayor Sylvester Turner's challenge to work in collaboration with Greater Houston Partnership and Houston Parks and Recreation Department on 50/50 Park Partners, an initiative that will revitalize our neighborhood parks through the sustainable support of private corporations. Based on three founding principles; Equity, Engagement, and Sustainable Impact, 50/50 Park Partners provides an opportunity to reinvigorate under-resourced neighborhood parks on a citywide scale.

Your investment in Houston Parks Board is a pillar of the broader vision for Houston: a diverse, connected, welcoming, economically thriving, and healthy city.

Recently we launched our #ParksByYou stories, a new storytelling initiative about why parks matter to all of us. By building momentum around the experiences of our diverse communities, we aim to inspire Houstonians to take critical action towards making parks their own. Together, we are bringing the Houston region and its richly diverse communities together in public spaces like never before.

At the end of next year, Bayou Greenways 2020 will connect 150 miles of trails and 3,000 acres of green space. Featured in publications such as Forbes and National Geographic, among others, this is one of the most ambitious park development and infrastructure re-use projects anywhere. From Houston's first ever citywide Art Bike Parade in the spring to our inaugural gala in the fall, we hope you will join us in celebrating and participating in this remarkable accomplishment throughout the year for our great city.

Forging ahead, our Beyond the Bayous framework continues our collaboration with our partners to improve green space equity and connectivity between parks, homes and jobs; increase public access to parks; and enhance the environmental health of communities. By fostering collaboration, reinvesting in existing parks, and identifying opportunities to expand our regional park network, Beyond the Bayous provides a pathway toward a park-centered future for Greater Houston.

Only with your continued support can we complete Bayou Greenways 2020 and advance the broad-reaching impact of Beyond the Bayous and 50/50 Park Partners, for the people of our city and region. Thank you for helping us realize the vision of thriving parks and communities for everyone.

Sincerely,

Parks and Trails for All Houstonians

VISION STATEMENT

Thriving parks and communities for everyone forever.

MISSION STATEMENT

Houston Parks Board creates, improves, protects, and advocates for parks for everyone.

STRATEGIC PRIORITIES

With a vision this ambitious, we're implementing a strong and comprehensive strategic plan we began in 2018 that outlined four key priorities. As you take a look at the transformative progress we've made this year, you'll see these priorities demonstrated throughout our work:

- Create and enhance parks
- Activate people and parks
- Inspire people to value parks
- Sustain successful operations

Brays Bayou Greenway, Mason Park

A Campaign Inspiring Houstonians to Connect Through Parks

Let's Get Closer To Our Parks, Our Trails, and What Matters Most.

In 2012, #ParksByYou started something big. It was a moment of commitment to the powerful idea that our bayous are a part of our story. As we get closer to reaching this goal, we are launching a new marketing campaign that will mobilize citywide excitement for Bayou Greenways 2020 and beyond.

"Let's Get Closer" will further the foundational work of #ParksByYou by inspiring not just personal responsibility for our parks, but also a sense of togetherness. We aim to reach more people in person and online to inspire action and encourage all Houstonians to make parks and trails their own.

We're honoring the cultural diversity of our communities through this bright, playful campaign that highlights the experiences of individuals who have created change all over Houston.

Our Goals

- Increase awareness of parks and public space.
- Increase connections between Houstonians and nature.
- Activate a network of engaged park users who take ownership of the spaces they use.
- Provide a framework for sharing personal experiences.
- Unite city leaders around a shared vision.

LET'S GET CLOSER

To each other. To friends, family, neighbors, and community.

To what's right in our backyard.

To our goal of being the #1 city in parks and green space with equitable access for all.

TO WHAT MATTERS.

#ParksByYou

Actions. Change. Human Stories.

TRAILS FOR EVERYONE
Charles

Charles wanted to be sure that Bayou Greenways 2020 would benefit his community instead of pushing them back. He knew that it would take an engaged and driven team of individuals to see this through, and we knew we had to deliver.

“When I first heard about Houston Parks Board’s plan to create miles of continuous bayou pathways, my first thought was, ‘How will that impact my community, and will my community get their share of those dollars and trails?’

“Our community has gotten the sense that this is a project that is inclusive of everyone.”

They said what they were gonna do, they did it, they delivered it, and it was as good as they said it was going to be. There were places where trails were put years ago that were in disrepair, and they put maintenance on it to make sure that six months later there wouldn’t be overgrown weeds and a trail no one will use again. We’ve seen a big difference since the trails were put in. My grandkids are 7 and 9. These trails are clean, safe, and wide—there’s so much space for them to ride around in.”

SASSY SILVER STEPPERS
Sue

Sue began walking with the Sassy Silver Steppers to promote an active and healthy style, but along the way created a sisterhood on the trails of her neighborhood park.

“We’re like the Golden Girls sometimes. Walking in the park has really opened up a whole world for all us.

“We’ve made so many friends along the way that if we have to skip a day, people say, ‘Where have y’all been? We miss you!’”

One day when we were walking, we discovered a community garden maintained by the City of Houston and Furr High School.

They needed volunteers, so we adopted 3 plant beds. We’ve gotten to know the instructors and the students. It’s been a joy to grow vegetables and share a fresh harvest with the community.”

Every Story is Unique

We encourage individuals from all neighborhoods to share their #ParksByYou experiences. Send us your story and it could be featured on the Houston Parks Board website. Fill out a quick form online at houstonparksboard.org/stories.

Keep an eye out for quotes from other storytellers in the yellow boxes like the one to the right. You can read these stories and more on our website.

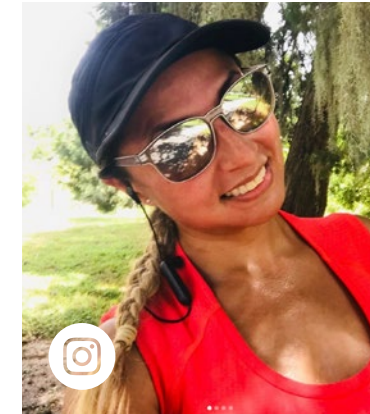

“In the next 18 months, we’ll have trails here. I couldn’t be more excited. Somehow we went from nothing to all of this.”

Welcoming a New Houston

Hunting Bayou Greenway, Mickey Leland Memorial Park

Celebrating Individuals and Communities with Bayou Greenways 2020

We are at the forefront of a significant change for all Houstonians. With the completion of Bayou Greenways 2020, Houston Parks Board will deliver a year-long celebration of Houston's newly connected parks, trails, and green spaces.

We recognize the work and heart of our supporters, notably the Kinder Foundation, who have built public-private investment around this ambitious project for over a decade. We are starting to see all of our commitments come together to create a connected park and trail system that unites communities. As a diverse city with an entrepreneurial soul, we have a unique opportunity to ensure all people have access to a high quality of life—and we're making it happen on a grand scale with Bayou Greenways 2020.

We are working to bring communities together. We've mobilized individuals and organizations all along Houston's greenways, creating inclusive access points for people to engage with our parks and trails. In this new era, anyone can propose an activity and get involved—from recycling to planting, from getting active to creating spaces for people to gather. We're launching a milestone year of large-scale celebrations and localized pop-ups all over the city. Infrastructure is just the start. In 2020, Houston will be alive with activity—kite-flying, bike-riding, community picnics, walking, running, commuting by trail, and more.

Houston's Inaugural Art Bike Parade

We are proud to announce Houston's first-ever Art Bike Parade, held in partnership with the Orange Show Center for Visionary Art (OSCV) on May 9, 2020.

This day-long arts and culture festival will bring together community members and youth programs from across the city as we discover everything our Bayou Greenways have to offer. We are connecting people with the Bayou Greenways, building awareness around what's new and what's on the way. We're uniting neighborhoods around an active and healthy quality of life for all.

Everyone will have a chance to participate as we celebrate diversity through artistic interpretations of how the outdoors connect us—embracing our health, our environment, our families, our friends, our neighborhoods, and our civic pride.

Transforming the City We Love Through New Volunteer Opportunities

Houston Parks Board is cultivating a citywide volunteer program that is empowering individuals to care for our greenways and parks. We're creating 'living places' across our diverse city—because safe, beautiful, and accessible parks are at the heart of every community.

#ParksByYou volunteers can share their vision for how they would like to get involved and for how long—choosing from ambassador-led activations, park stewardship projects, traditional roles at events or in the office, or any other informal opportunity. When we take small actions together, we make a bigger impact than we ever thought possible.

50/50 Park Partners: Improving Houston's Neighborhoods

Thanks to the support of public-private partnerships, Houston's national reputation as a leader in cultivating green spaces for diverse neighborhoods has grown.

We look forward to continuing to transform our city's scope of outreach by taking a principal role in Mayor Sylvester Turner's challenge, 50/50 Park Partners—an initiative that will revitalize our neighborhood parks through the support of corporations. "Green space is vitally important. You cannot have a complete city without having the green space and the parks that go right along with it," says Mayor Sylvester Turner.

We look forward to collaborating with Houston Parks and Recreation Department and Greater Houston Partnership to move this initiative forward. Now 50 companies can partner with 50 parks and their communities to ensure that our parks and trails are spaces where all people in Houston can access a high quality of life.

Founding Principles of 50/50 Park Partners:

Park Equity

Neighborhood parks are equitably selected and improved based on need and citywide distribution.

Long-term Sustainable Impact

The 50/50 Park Partners initiative provides a multi-year investment, starting a long-term partnership between businesses, neighborhood parks, and the community.

Community Engagement

Improvements, projects, and volunteer support are responsive to the community and focus on existing parks.

Creating Equitable Access for Future Generations

Halls Bayou Greenway

After 2020—Planning a Better Tomorrow

We've accomplished so much already, but our work creating equitable access to parks and trails for millions of people in Houston is just beginning. Beyond the Bayous and 50/50 Park Partners will energize our efforts, bringing green spaces to historically underserved communities throughout the city, and bringing jobs, opportunities, and a healthy lifestyle to all.

Beyond the Bayous

Beyond the Bayous is the shared vision of Houston Parks Board and its cross-sector partners to expand Greater Houston's public realm—improving green space equity and connectivity between parks, homes, and jobs; increasing public access to parks; and enhancing the environmental health of communities.

By fostering collaboration, reinvesting in existing parks, and identifying opportunities which allow for the expansion of the regional park network, parks and greenways will weave throughout Houston's urban fabric, creating a tapestry of vibrant, connected communities. The initiative is the result of a 2017 study generously funded by Houston Endowment.

Working Together to Connect People and Communities

Thank You to Our Long-time Supporters

Our important work couldn't happen without the generosity and vision of those that have dedicated their lives to transforming Houston. We acknowledge their powerful contribution and honor their impact.

The Elkins Family

In 1979, Margaret Weiss Elkins, a founding board member of Houston Parks Board, deeded nearly 500 acres to the City of Houston to create Keith-Wiess Park, memorializing her parents, Harry Carothers Wiess and Olga Keith Wiess. Margaret is known for her generous support of Houston institutions such as Rice University, Baylor College of Medicine and the Museum of Fine Arts, among others. The family tradition continued through the late Jim Elkins, our Chairman for four years and member of the Board of Directors for fourteen years, and Leslie Elkins Sasser, current board member. Now, we thank the Elkins family again, and can't thank them enough, for their transformative gift to Bayou Greenways 2020.

well as MacGregor Park, with the goal of improving youth well-being—reducing stress and mental health risks for youth and their families through their experiences with parks. Working together with community partners such as Houston and Harris County Public Libraries, Houston Police Department's Differential Response Team (DRT), schools, after-school programs, Mental Health America, Harris Health, and more, Houston Parks Board aims to expand opportunities for outdoor experiences in parks and beyond, addressing health and park access inequities and creating awareness around the health benefits for neighborhoods in need of critical support.

"I'm more aware of how powerful it is to be in contact with nature. I'm more aware of who I really am in this world."

Memorial Hermann Match Challenge $15,000 match

In June, Memorial Hermann invited us to a challenge—raise $15,000 that month and they would match it. We have raised $110,055 over the last three years from this generous opportunity. Thanks to you and this extraordinary support from our partner in health, we're able to move forward with our mission.

Bayou Greenway Day

A Success Because of the Community

Our fifth annual Bayou Greenway Day was met with record attendance, with 6,000 Houstonians of all ages attending this free festival at Mason Park along Brays Bayou Greenway. With more partners than ever joining in, we reached communities far and wide.

The day launched with a 5K Fun Run and Walk held in partnership with the Houston Wellness project. Houston Texans and The Wade Smith Foundation presented football and cheer clinics while the Houston Dynamo held soccer games and drills. Other events included an Easter Egg hunt and family-friendly activities from the Houston Zoo, Houston Public Library, Nature & Eclectic Outdoors, Bayou Preservation Association, BikeHouston, Bayou City Waterkeeper, local civic organizations, and a dozen others.

Those in attendance included Mayor Sylvester Turner; Rich and Nancy Kinder, Kinder Foundation; Ken Fischer, Chief Financial Officer, Noble Energy; Congresswoman Sylvia Garcia, District 29; Senator Carol Alvarado, District 6; Council Member Robert Gallegos, District 1; At-Large Council Member Jack Christie; At-Large Council Member Mike Knox; At-Large Council Member David Robinson; Beth White, President and CEO, Houston Parks Board; Steve Wright, Houston Parks and Recreation Director; Dina Alsowayel and Laura Spanjian, Bayou Greenway Day Event Chairs; and many more.

Bayou Greenway Day 2019 is a project of Houston Parks Board in collaboration with the Houston Parks and Recreation Department. This event was presented by Noble Energy. Media sponsors included KPRC Channel 2, Telemundo, and La Subasta Newspaper.

Thank You, 2019 Donors
